

Our universe is but one page in a large book, each with different sets of physical laws and types of Consciousness

Robert N. Boyd*

Physics advisor for Princeton Biotechnology Corp., Barrington, NJ 08007, USA

Emails: rnboyd@comcast.net

Abstract

Our universe is but one page in a large book. For example, things and Beings can travel between Universes, intentionally or unintentionally. The pages of the "book" of Universe are connected at a common point and move outwards in a rotation, overlaid in a spiral manner, related to the phi ratio. Each "page" which is "touching" the next page and the previous page, has physical laws and forms of Consciousness that are only slightly different from one another.

Keywords: Universe; many worlds hypothesis; book of the Hopi; Ancient Hopi Indian culture

1. Introduction: Our universe is but one page in a large book

Although there are various perceptive developments on what the Universe is like, which presently known as modern cosmology, from ancient sources like the book of Genesis (e.g. the story of Jacob's ladder) or ancient Indian Hopi, we can learn that the we live in a vast Cosmos, which may require really advanced geometry to comprehend its geometry, topology etc. although in daily life we perceive it as 3D space. [1][3][4]

The following sections describe what we can learn from ancient Indian Hopi's spiritual experience on multiple pages of the Universe as a large Book, created by the Creator.

To begin with, here is a limited example, as expressed by a CERN researcher:

"Our universe is but one page in a large book. Think of a closed book sitting on a table: you see each page stacked on top of one another, bound by the spine and sandwiched between the two covers. Our universe is but one page in a vast and all-encompassing book. And our page is certainly not the only one with rich, in-depth thought and writing committed to it. Every page in the book represents a different dimension each with its own unique writing, own unique story, own unique way of isolating itself from the other pages. No page was to interact with the other, just as no ink bleeds from one page to another in a standard book. Each page is a universe unto itself."

That was what he believed, based on limited and standardized research. Thus, he missed many additional factors.

For example, things and Beings can travel between Universes, intentionally or unintentionally. The pages of the "book" of Universe are connected at a common point and move outwards in a rotation, overlaid in a spiral manner, related to the phi ratio.

Each "page" which is "touching" the next page and the previous page, has physical laws and forms of Consciousness that are only slightly different from one another.

The further you go in or out, along the spiral, the more unrelated the various Universe's laws and Beings are, so that if you move many "pages" away from your starting page, the features of that Universe will be completely outrageously different from where you are now.

There is a pattern carved into the rocks on top of one of the Mesas in Hopi land. If 3 people of different genders walk the pattern together, late at night, the very rocks will start emitting light from the pattern, as they are walking the pattern together, so they can see where they are going along the pattern and where they've been.

When they follow the pattern, all the way to the end of the pattern, in an instant they are each transported to a different "page" for a few seconds or minutes, or hours, with each individual person going to a different "page" than the other two. Some individuals did not return for days. A very few did not return for months. Some are still gone.

Special permission from the Hopi Elders is required to go there and walk the pattern. They take responsibility for every person who walks the pattern, working to ensure their continuous well-being.

It is much easier to travel between pages that are only slightly different from where we are now.

Indeed, such events are seen fairly often in the Natural Worlds. There are various Beings that can travel "between worlds", at will, such as Sasquatches and crows, based on my direct personal witnessing of their abilities.

Elves and Fairy Beings are probably from the next "page" and what they do can influence us and what we do, can influence their experiences.

Sometimes, such Beings establish residences that involve 2 or more "pages" of Reality, in the same household, so that, for example, their home is situated on the inside of a large tree, handsomely decorated inside with their personal tastes in art work and furnishings. Such homes cannot be detected from outside the tree. (Until you learn how to "see" in there, it's just another tree.)

I'm not sure if there are an infinite number of pages or not. However, even the Dimension Wizard has never arrived at any end point of new pages. He told me once he thinks it goes on forever.

It makes sense to me that the number of pages should be infinite. So that results in an infinite number of infinite volume Universes. I wrote an article on this when I was with Greenglow, but it's been so long ago, I've forgotten what was said.

Certainly, this is not the only version of Reality. But we came here to have the exactly the experiences we have had and to gain the knowledge and abilities we have gained, and to watch the Golden Age unfold before our eyes. (Watching all that happen, in ever increasing Beauty, was part of the deal we made, for this incarnation.)

We always have choices, where what we choose influences our future experiences. Some choices are vastly more important than others and have much larger effects. But you'd have to be in deep and direct contact with your personal Life Guides to understand all the forks and branches of your particular Tree of Life,¹ and which choices were (or will be) the most important, and why. However, such information is not constantly readily available, so that we can experience Free Will.

There are several kinds inter-dimensional openings, some temporary, lasting for only a few minutes before vanishing and others which stay in the same location on this planet for many years. The temporary gateways resemble windows or doors in the form of a black rectangle. They arrive in various sizes. Some move away from where they first appeared.

Most known gateways are semi-permanent and have existed in exactly the same location for decades. One has to know how dimension gates look and feel in order to be able to find them.

¹ cf. Kuntz, Marion L. & P.G. Kuntz. Jacob's ladder and the tree of life. (Lang, New York; Bern; Frankfurt am Main, 1987)

The larger permanent portals have Dimension-Door Guardians who impose entry conditions on all forms of Consciousness that want to use the gateway. If you do not meet all the requirements of that particular Guardian, you are not allowed to physically enter the gateway they are guarding.

Some have only one destination. Others have multitudes of destination locations. Some are one way. You can go there, wherever there is, but you can't get back to where you started.

Most of gateways allow travels both in and out of the specific portal. Each portal has a specific number, and specific types, of destination locations.

There are several Gateways near where I live in Maryland. So I explored them for years. I can find them in every continent I've been to, so far.

2. Some Revelations About the Hopi Way of Life

The details of each ceremony are so involved and complex that an entire book can be filled with their examining their ancient ceremonial traditions. One book that goes into this study in great depth and detail was written by Frank Waters, who spent a great amount time with the Hopi people during the mid-1960s.

He faithfully wrote down all the words that each of of 30 Elders of the Hopi clans said. The Book Of The Hopi gives startling insights into their ancient and beautiful customs. cf. [2][6].

The way of life for the Hopi is entirely involved with their religion. It is a complex system of traditions, passed down through generations by verbal tradition. The traditions also surround all their rituals and ceremonies. For their entire life, a Hopi lives every minute in concert with their various sacred traditions.

To the Hopi, the great breathing mountains, the talking stones, even the cornstalk, are all alive and aware and can be communicated with in a way that reminds me of Vac. Everything that exists also plays a significant part of Hopi life, because each item is, at the same time, symbolic of the Spirits which give the various items and living things their form and their aliveness.

The various spirit forms are manifestations of the one supreme creative power that fills them with meaning, The One Power, which gives them movements and experiences in their earthly journeys and seasonal cycles.

All their ceremonies must be performed in unison with the constellations in the night sky, and lunar and solar observations. Many complicated-looking, yet simple and profound truths are deeply and utterly part of the Hopi people, as seen in their ceremonies and their very way of life.

For the Hopi, every minute of every day, is part of a constant meditative and active moving prayer, in concert with the Natural Environment and the Spirit Beings. For the Hopi, such activities and attitudes, never stop.

3. On Vac communication (interstellar communication)

Apparently, one way to go to action-at-a-distance communication, is to employ entanglement concept in QM into practical telecommunication. An ancient version to do such an interstellar communication, is known as "vac communication", based on Vac a known figure for speech in ancient India mythology.

What is vac?

Vac is telepathy and empathy at the same time. Vac requires the ability to be the very sensitive receiver, as well as a transmitter.

Vac is based on mental images and conveyances of direct personal experiences, along with the emotional contents of the experiences.

Vac requires Conscious, focused attention, and direct awareness on both sides of the comm.

Vac is a kind of "quantum entanglement" which relies on non-local holographic conveyances of information by the vehicle of SubQuantum aether. It can be focused on a single target by the focused attention of the transmitter, singularly on the whatever Other. It improves by the focused attention of the receiver, on the experiences being provided by the sender.

Krishnamurti describes this as the Observer becoming the Observed. It is also described as the Merging Vision practice of the Harmony Way.²

It is Being the Being your attention is on, to whatever are the limits of your comforts and your various tolerances for various different other-than-yous.

This Direct Being-to-Being communication, or a kind of partial Soul-Union.

It is a form of Unity Consciousness, which everyone and everything is in, to some degree, or they are moving towards Oneness.

When you start doing this you are able to establish shared experiences with such things as stars, mountains, trees, animals, insects, and so on ad infinitum. As you get good at communing with various kinds of Beings, direct communications with Divinity becomes more and more available, first in the form of the Ambient Intelligence, then in terms of the Telluric Intelligence, then in terms of Nature's Harmony, then the Cosmic Harmony. Before you know it, you and It will be communicating about whatever.

All your senses have related Super Senses, and those improve with practice.

According to ancient texts, there are at least 200 senses. Something to explore if you ever run out of things to do.

4. Concluding remark

Although there are various perceptive developments on what the Universe is like, which presently known as modern cosmology, from ancient sources like the book of Genesis (e.g. the story of Jacob's ladder) or ancient Indian Hopi, we can learn that the we live in a vast Cosmos, which may require really advanced geometry to comprehend its geometry, topology etc. although in daily life we perceive it as 3D space.

The following sections describe what we can learn from ancient Indian Hopi's spiritual experience on multiple pages of the Universe as a large Book, created by the Creator (God the Almighty).

In the last section, I discussed shortly possibility of vac communication.

Quote for the day:

"God is here, helping directly, and things are moving along very nicely."

Funding: "This research received no external funding."

Conflicts of Interest: "The authors declare no conflict of interest."

References

- [1] Berger, M. Geometry revealed: A Jacob's ladder to modern higher geometry. Springer-Verlag, Berlin Heidelberg, 2010
- [2] Joseph, Frank. Discovering the Mysteries of Ancient America: Lost history and legends, unearthed and explored. New Page Books, Franklin Lakes, 2006
- [3] Kuntz, Marion L. & P.G. Kuntz. Jacob's ladder and the tree of life. Lang, New York; Bern; Frankfurt am Main, 1987.
- [4] Orlov, Andrei A. The Face as the Heavenly Counterpart of the Visionary in the Slavonic Ladder of Jacob; published in: C. Evans (ed.) Of Scribes and Sages. T&T Clark/Continuum, London, pp. 59-76, 2004.
- [5] Waters, Frank. The Book of The Hopi. Penguin Books Ltd., Harmondsworth, 1977
- [6] Vaidman, Lev. Special report in Entropy, MDPI (2019). url: <https://www.mdpi.com/1099-4300/21/5/447>
RNB

² cf. Robert N. Boyd. Penetrating insights. url: <http://worlds-within-worlds.org/penetrating-insight.php> (accessed July, 2022)